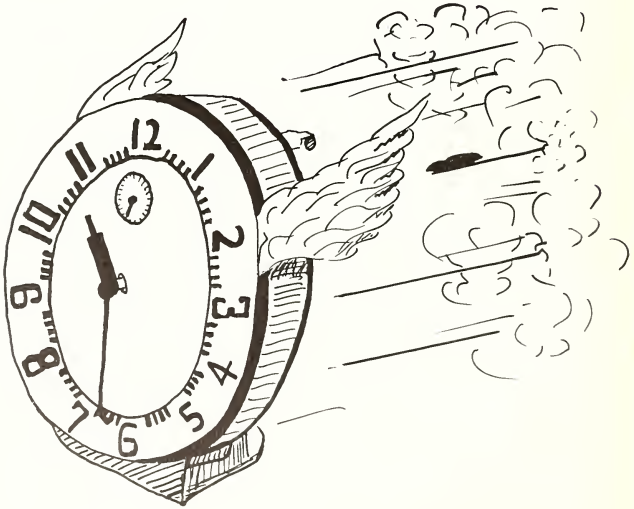
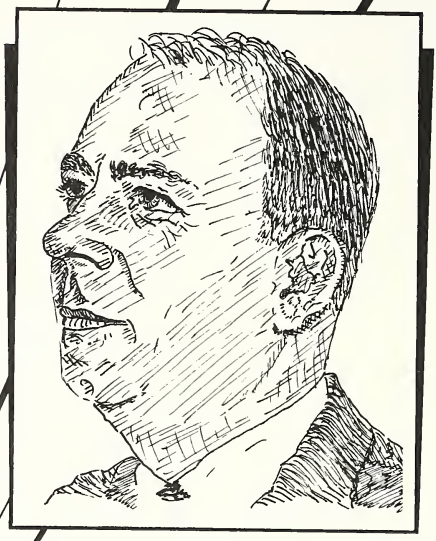
Tempus Fugit.



STRATHROY ONTARIO

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE



Allen County Public Library
900 Webster Street
PO Box 2270
Fort Wayne, IN 46801-2270

After the production of two excellent yearbooks, it is obvious that this year's staff faces a formidable challenge if it is to meet or surpass the standards now established. To do this, they will be relying on the co-operation of a goodly proportion of the student body and it is my hope that this will be forthcoming.

In some ways this year's staff will enjoy advantages. The construction of what will probably be the last addition to this school is just now under way. Problems of movement within the school, inconveniences affecting all of us, makeshift arrangements for teaching areas, along with the progress of the building itself should provide the yearbook staff with ample material from which to produce an interesting and unique book.

I offer my best wishes for a successful endeavour and my willingness to assist in every way possible.

H.A. Posliff

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It was indeed an honour to be asked to contribute to this the third edition of "Tempus Fugit". As you are looking back on your school days I'm sure this year, our Centennial Year, will stand out as one of the most memorable parts of your youth.

This was the year of Canada's giant birthday party, of Centennial projects, of trans-Canada trips, of Expo. At S.D.C.I. this was the year our football team was finally a winner, the year our hockey and wrestling teams dominated London, the first time they competed in that league, the year of the bomb threats, the year of construction, when we almost doubled the size of our school, the year we did double our campus and finally got a track of our own.

I offer my congratulations to Sue Thorn and her staff and the staff adviser Mr. Wilson for the job well done in putting out the yearbook.

This book I'm sure will hold many fond memories for all of us and I hope that as you are reminiscing you will remember 1966-67 as one of the best years of your life.

Jim Elliott

Oh'm! I tried to tell you about her

Crew at work

Ida, I love you

Mr. Burke at work

Are we alone?!

My Assailant!

In there! In there! A Man!

Look at her, Blimp, not the floor!

Sergeant, arrest most of these people

He's an old friend of mine

While this play was under production, Miss Beacom directed several workshop productions. Members and directors of the club are to be congratulated for a very successful year.

SCHOOL TODAY

The school is in,
It's a terrible bore,
I wish I was free,
To come no more.

Schools were started
To teach the people,
But now modern media,
Has become its equal.

Students are programmed
As computers, you see
And become cogs
In societies' machinery.

Never question, you're told,
But obey all,
Hitler rose this way
Before his fall.

Our study courses
Are made by old men,
It's good for us 'cause
It was good for them?

Jam Andersen -- 10C

IMAGINE

Imagine what it would be like, -
A newspaper without a war,
A serene radio and T.V.,
No news from countries sore?

Think of a world with love,
Absent of murder and hate;
Think of contented people,
Carefree; unafraid of fate.

Picture a planet of progress,
One comes with the other it's true;
A warning; don't arouse false hopes,
For "imagine" is all you can do!

RANDOM THOUGHTS

I lie on the bed, alone
In my hospital room.
Beside me a boy lies,
Sick as hell.
His laboured breathing combining
With my scratching pen
to disturb the deathly silence
Which permeates the atmosphere.

Outside my window the snow falls,
Fast as a rain in summer,
Thick as a London fog,
Heavy as a curtain of iron.
I am isolated from the world,
Like a condemned man in his cell,
Only my thoughts to keep me company
In this prison without bars.
Unfettred are my dreams and
Freely they roam.
Flitting o'er naked girls
Chaste no more,
Through bottles of whiskey
Empty.
Around the worlds of past and present,
Painting the Sistine Chapel,
Shooting in the jungles,
Winning the decathlon.
High as an eagle they soar
In the limitless realm
Of Platonic Forms.

Like the crank of a hunter's gun
Like the crack
The words of my white garbed goaler
Pull me back to the harsh reality
Of now.
Back to the omnipresent threats,
Of bombs, booze, and disease.
Returning to the black spectre,
Of death; the end to a life,
Which is far too short
For the immortal desires
Of mortal, mortal man.

AFTER-THOUGHTS ON WAR

There came a letter in the mail
To issue forth demands of this my son;
Demands of all his youth, his strength, his love of fellow man,
And in return, a gun, a gun he did receive,
And how I cried when he took up that gun
And marched into that world of hate, that war
Where, love abandoned, he must kill
Some other mother's son.

Oh God, is this some punishment
We wrought upon ourselves
That we must take up weapons
And hate, kill hate?
What sins do rate this penance we must face,
This grieving, burning feeling in each heart
Of every mother in the universe of man,
When son and mother in this way must part?

But when he was a boy
You caught him throwing stones.
You heard him say that he was not so weak
To be the one to turn the other cheek.
You laughed and said "Go to it son!
Don't let them put you down!"
From that time on the glass was turned.
The evil seed was sown.

A million sobbing mothers
In a hundred score of lands
Helped to send the letter
To issue forth demands.
And just as many fathers
Helped to forge the fateful gun -
The deserved retribution
Was the forfeit of a son.

LOOKING FOR A JOB?

CONSIDER THESE FACTS ABOUT LONDON LIFE:

Last year, over 100 people at head office were promoted. There is a set policy of promotion from within the organization.

London Life sells more life insurance to Canadians than any other company.

An educational program covering all phases of the life insurance business is provided to new staff members.

Each staff member's progress is reviewed at definite intervals.

There are job opportunities at London Life for high school graduates — both men and women. For more information telephone or write to the Personnel Department, Head Office, London.
